HIGHWAY MEMBERS SET CELEBRATION DATE

Fifty Miami People To Come Here Next Month

ROSENFELD STATES VALLEY IMPRESSES VISITORS FAVORABLY

Millionaire Operator And Party of Fifteen Here Short Time

PLANS MADE FOR SECOND TRIP

Enthusiasm High Over Future Prospects of North Alabama

A party of fifty residents of Miami, Fla., will arrive in the Tennessee valley within the next thirty days to look over the real estate situation in this section of the state. Positive announcement to this effect was made here Saturday afternoon by G. W. Rosenfeld, millionaire real estate operator in the Florida city, who was here today with a party of Florida people.

Mr. Rosenfeld's party visited in the Tri-Cities where they looked over the government operations, spent last night in Huntsville and arrived here this morning to see Albany and Decatur. They left early this afternoon, aboard Louisville and Nashville south-bound train at one o'clock on their return trip.

Members of the party expressed themselves as amazed with opportunities offered for development in the Tennessee Valley. They were bubbling over with enthusiasm regarding the outlook and Mr. Rosenfeld told a Daily reporter:

"You can say positively that a party of fifty people or more from Miami will be back up here inside of 30 days time to look further into your section's possibilities."

The visit here of the first Florida party bears out rumors which have gained considerable circulation, to the effect that there is considerable interest being given North Alabama in plans for the future upbuilding of other sections of the South, in addition to the Florida boom.

Besides Mr. Rosenfeld, the Florida party is composed of the following: Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Chapman, Miami, Mrs. T. Owoma, Miami, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Soars, Little River, Fla., Mrs. Edna Blair, Lenoir City, Fla., Mrs. James Gorbett, Lenoir City, Fla., Mr. W. M. Rendant, Savannah, Ga., G. L. Geisenger, Miami, G. W. Schrolber and son, Miami, J. Edwin Thompson of Springfield, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moore.

Mr. Rosenfeld expressed regret that it was necessary to spend such a short time in the Twin Cities. Comparatively few local citizens were able to meet the visitors, because of the shortness of their visit. Local people would have appreciated the opportunity to have played the role of host to the party.

Mr. Rosenfeld, however, promised to let local people know in advance of the coming of the second party, at which time Albany and Decatur will make adequate arrangements for their entertainment.

Malaria Still Is Showing Decrease

Malaria continues to decrease in North Alabama, Dr. A. J. Perolio, director of the Tennessee Valley laboratory, announced Saturday.

Dr. Perolio declared there had been a very noticeable decline in Morgan County since the inauguration of the anti-mosquito campaign which although started late, has done much to eliminate the mosquito breeding places in this territory.

SOME MEN PAID

Some employees of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company in this vicinity were receiving their pay checks today. Most of the employees, however, will be paid Monday.

CIVIL DOCKET TO BE TAKEN UP SOON

Kyle Will Preside At Three Week's Term of Circuit Court

A three weeks term of circuit court will be opened here on September 7, with Judge O. Kyle, presiding. No criminal cases will be taken up at that time, a term of criminal court having been conducted here a few weeks ago.

A term of criminal court, together with a session of the Morgan County grand jury, will be convened here in November, it was stated.

During the first period, it is expected that about one week will be devoted to hearing of the Gilchrist ejectment suits.

Health Official To Return Monday

Dr. H. C. McRee, who has been enjoying his two weeks vacation visiting relatives in Winchester, Tenn., will return Monday to resume his position as head of the Morgan County health unit.

YOUR strength is in your lungs and heart. A French doctor examining Miss Gertrude Ederle, marvelous young German-American swimming champion, are "astounded by her lung expansion." Three times he measured her chest, unable to believe his eyes.

THE young girl's powerful chest expands 6 inches. The average strong man does not expand 3 inches. Because of this great lung expansion many are betting that Miss Ederle will be the first woman to swim the channel.

Every American wishes her success. And after the swim the young woman should marry some very intelligent man of about forty, with good character clean blooded blue eyes and dolicocephalic skull

RESERVOIR TO GIVE LOCAL COMPRESS BIG WATER RESERVE

Tank Being Erected At Plant By Chicago Bridge Company

SPRINKLERS ARE NEARLY ALL IN

Insurance Rate Will Be Cut Materially By Improvement

The Chicago Bridge and Iron company is erecting a large water tank at the Decatur Compress company's plant, in connection with the installation of a $100,000 sprinkler system, which will reduce the insurance cost to users more than 100 per cent.

The tank will be of 100,000 gallons capacity and will provide the compress with reserve water supply for any emergency. The water in the sprinkler system, under ordinary circumstances, will not come from the tank, but should it be needed, there will be available a supply of 100,000 gallons which would go into the system under high pressure. The tower will be 100 feet in height.

Work of installation of the new sprinkler system will be completed in two weeks, guarantee of completion by September 1 having been given the compress company when the contract was signed several months ago.

The system will include 3595 sprinkler heads, scattered all over the large plant. The sprinkler heads operate automatically. The pipes are filled with air, and there is a small glass covering, held in place by very soft lead on the heads. When this lead becomes warm, the melting permits the air to leak out and water follows through the pipes, into the heads, where it is scattered by a device for that purpose.

The sprinkler system, installed by the company as a convenience and an agency of economy for the customers of the local compress, will reduce the insurance rate from $1.65 to a maximum of 50 cents, thereby effecting a saving of at least $1.15 to customers.

During the past season 69,000 bales of cotton were handled at the local compress and this year it is believed that the figure will go close to 80,000 the local compress now being one of the very best in the South.

Heavy Docket Is Cleared In Court

A heavy docket was cleared in the Albany police court this morning, when Mayor Carswell assessed fines aggregating nearly $350. One case, in which the defendant was charged with throwing rocks, was dismissed. One defendant was fined on two charges $28.60 and $51.60. The arrest was made by Officer J. M. West. Another defendant was fined $26.60 on a speeding charge and $51.60 on a charge of reckless driving. The arrest was made by Officer J. M. West. One alleged prohibition law violator drew a fine of $51.60. He was arrested by Officer West.

A defendant, arrested by Officers with disorderly conduct and parking on property not his own, was fined $51.60. Two negroes, arrested in connection with a theft drew fines of $26.60 and $51.60 each and street sentences.

7 More Capital Cases Are Set

FLORIDA EXECUTIVE IS APPEALED TO IN HOMESTEAD CASE

Claim That Collier Has No Title To "Lost Land"

PETITIONS TO BE PRESENTED

Collier Says It Is An Effort To Oust His Title

(Associated Press)

FORT MYERS, Fla., Aug. 15—Governor Martin will be asked by Marco Island Homesteaders to intervene in the fight for 3,000 acres of 'lost land.' Armed with petitions signed by 153 persons said to be almost all the voters of Collier county, not in the employ of Byron G. Collier, a delegation of claimants will go to Tallahassee as soon as an appointment can be made to see the governor.

Petitions demand that Sheriff W. R. Maynard and his armed deputies who are alleged to be supporting Mr. Collier's claim, be ordered to leave the island.

Appeal to the Governor was determined upon last night by W. G. Williams owner of a site at Marco after the county judge, W. G. Stortor told them he had no authority to intervene.

The situation early today was more calm on the surface than it is believed to be underneath.

The local attorney for Mr. Collier said the department of interior order of July 4, did not provide for an exploratory survey of the island to determine the precise boundaries of all the land to which title is held by Mr. Collier.

Mr. Williams insists however that the order does so provide.

He is relying on the survey to establish his claim to more than a mile strip, a strip which he contends has never been deeded to anyone and is still government land. It is this land which has been said by Collier to be legally his own.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—Byron G. Collier today described as an "attempt to blackmail," the action of supposed homesteaders to obtain land on Marco Island all held by the Collier interests. He charged that W. G. Williams had imported relatives and friends from New Jersey and Philadelphia to obtain land which was legally owned by his group.

City Problem Is Talked In Parley

Committees from both cities are scheduled to gather at the Central National bank this afternoon at four o'clock for the purpose of discussing the proposal started in Albany for the consolidating of the two cities, the merged city to bear the name of Decatur.

It was expected that representative citizens from each city would be asked to join in the parley, the purpose of which, it was declared was to outline the full plan inaugurated in Albany for the amalgamation of the two cities.

Albany committeemen stated today that the petitions in Albany, issued for the purpose of calling an election, have been signed liberally, and that the number necessary for the calling of such an election has almost been reached. Petitions have been placed in drug stores in the city and some representative businessmen backing the movement have gone to the voters with the petition.

CANADIAN CONCERN SEEKING LOCATION

Survey Will Be Made In Nashville By The Company

Announcement that representatives of a $10,000,000 Canadian textile concern will be in Nashville in September, to look over available sites for a Southern plant, were received with interest here by members of the chamber of commerce.

The plant would employ between 800 and 1,000 people, the Nashville report added, stating that the company has been seeking a Southern location for some time. Nashville understands, however, that the company prefers to locate in one of the larger cities of the South, where it would not be necessary for the plant to construct a mill village to take care of the resident labor.

The Nashville story follows closely on the heels of the announcement of the location at Johnson City, Tenn., of a tremendous rayon producing plant by German interests and was taken as further evidence of the fact that the South is the coming industrial section.

Age-Herald Man Visiting Relatives

George Henry Watson, state news editor of the Birmingham Age-Herald, was a visitor here today. He is spending his vacation at his old home near Moulton, and was greeting friends in the Twin Cities Saturday.

Mr. Watson keeps in close touch with the developments in Albany and Decatur and has watched with interest, he said, the successful campaign to obtain a bridge across the Tennessee river at this point.

He expressed the hope that construction will be started soon on the highway from here to Moulton, to connect with the paved road already built from the Morgan county line into Moulton.

SEPTEMBER 17TH IS PICKED BY BODY FOR BRIDGE AFFAIR

Day Expected To Be Greatest In Cities History

PLANS ARE NOW WELL UNDERWAY

Hundreds Will Be Here For Day's Entertainment

State Highway officials have selected September 17 as the most convenient date for the setting of the bridge celebration according to notification received today by local bridge leaders. It is expected that hundreds from over the sections of North Alabama, other state officials and dignitaries from neighboring states will be here on that date to help the cities celebrate the occasion.

Though the selection of September 17 is regarded as a little late for the affair, bridge leaders today saw an advantage in the ample time that is offered for extensive preparation. It is believed that the committees can go to work at once in preparing for the celebration and possibly make of it a greater occasion than was first scheduled.

Some leaders are of the opinion that an affair similar to the annual lay held last September will be the result of the delayed festivity. During last fall over 10,000 people of this section gathered in Malone park to attend a gigantic barbecue and hear prominent speakers from this state.

It is expected that highway commission officials will be called upon to speak on the 17th, and plans are now underway to obtain a local auditorium for the purpose. The barbecue be held near the bridge site where and other entertainment will likely the Koss Construction company now is working a small force in the preliminary arrangements.

Date for the celebration will not fall on the same date as of the beginning of actual construction on the structure, as it was first thought, and perhaps the turn of affairs is better after all for the hundreds of people will be able to gain some idea of the extent of the gigantic structure, location, and quality of bridge which is to stretch across the water at this point.

Committees will start to work early next week to arrange for the financing of the celebration. Preliminary work has already been done by local leaders and belief is general that the date set aside by the commission will witness one of the largest crowds gathered here in the history of the cities.

SYNOPSIS PART ONE

CHAPTER I.—At a merry party in the studio apartment of Carter Blake, in New York, Jerry Harmer, Prudence's daughter, meets Duane Allerton, wealthy idler. He becomes slightly intoxicated, and Jerry, resenting his assumption of familiarity, leaves the party abruptly.

CHAPTER II.—The story turns to Jerry's childhood and youth at her home in Des Moines. Only child of a wealthy father, when she is twenty she feels the call of art, and her parents, with some misgivings, agree to her going to New York to study.

CHAPTER III.—In New York Jerry makes her home with Mrs. Delaney ("Mimi"), an actress, who, with Theresa, a painter, occupies the house. Jerry takes an immediate liking to Theresa, and the two become fast friends.

CHAPTER IV.—The friendship between Jerry and Theresa, who is eccentric but talented, grows. Jerry poses for Theresa's masterpiece, "The Ocean Rider." Allerton calls on Jerry, the girl, recalling his conduct at the studio party, refuses to see him.

CHAPTER V.—At a hotel dinner Jerry sees Duane and is conscious of his admiration but refuses to change her attitude toward him. Jerry becomes convinced she has not the ability to become an artist and offers her expensive painting equipment to an all-time friend, Greta Val, who cannot understand her generosity. A painful scene results.

CHAPTER VI.—Jerry, with Theresa's help, convinces Greta of her good intentions, and the two girls "make up." At a party Jerry again sees Duane, and will not recognize him. Theresa hints that Jerry should go home, and promises her a "present."

CHAPTER VII.—Returning from an evening of gayety, Jerry is shocked at hearing from Mimi that Theresa has killed herself. She also learns that Mimi is Theresa's mother, and is pained at the seeming triviality of the older woman in the face of the tragedy. The "present" Theresa had promised Jerry proves to be her picture, "The Ocean Rider." Jerry is deeply moved. After the funeral of her friend she decides to go home.

PART TWO

CHAPTER I.—At home Jerry is enthusiastically welcomed by her adoring parents. She wins their sympathies with the pathetic stories of Theresa and of Greta Val.

CHAPTER II.—Unable to settle into the routine of everyday life in her home city, Jerry is dissatisfied.

CHAPTER III.—The "sameness" of the lack of individuality in the houses in the city, has shocked Jerry's artistic instincts and given her an idea. She determines to create a standard of beauty in her home building, borrowing money from her father, Jerrold Harmer, to do it, and incidentally determining that the work shall be her "career." A letter from Rhoda La Faye informs her that Duane Allerton has lost his fortune in Wall Street and is practically destitute. In pity and sympathy she writes Allerton, offering him a position in her father's automobile factory.

ing on the wide veranda of the great white house, shadowy beneath great branching maples with leaves faintly turning to gold at the edges, before he realized that he had no idea under heaven as to whom he had come there to see.

"See Prudence," Jerrold had told him, with vast relief.

"In love like Prudence," Jerry had said on that memorable night in Carter Blake's kitchen.

"Good Lord!" he thought in trepidation. "Am I to blurt it out like that, 'Lead me to Prudence'?" For what or whomver she might be, whether sister, companion, or friend, he had no slightest idea.

In another instant he would have bolted for freedom from this embarrassing predicament, but the door opened in the face of his dismay, and Katie's sober placid features confronted him.

"You Go Up to the House and See Prudence."

"Er-uh," he stammered nervously, and then he faced it bravely, with that winning smile which never yet had failed to blaze a trail for him. "It sounds rather a fool's errand, I know," he said pleasantly, "but Mr. Harmer sent me up and told me to see Prudence."

CHAPTER V

Jerry's Mother

Duane's plaintive announcement at the hospitable door of the Harmer home found echo in a soft peal of sympathetic laughter from within, and she came herself to receive him, Prudence, both hands outstretched in welcome.

"I'm Prudence," she said. "I am Jerry's mother. Come right in, won't you? It was just like my husband to send you to me in some such crazy fashion."

Duane felt a pleasant, curious quiet come over him as he looked at her. Prudence, Jerry had thought it was falling in love like—Prudence. Jerrold had sent him in triumph to—Prudence. This was Prudence.

In spite of the extreme slenderness of her figure, in spite of the delicate pallor of her creamy skin and the faint suggestion of silver in the soft brown hair, there was nothing of frailty about her, rather a sort of youthful, undying buoyancy. Duane loved the humorous droop of her sensitive lips, the humorous light of interest in her bright eyes.

Prudence laughed, holding his hand companionably in hers, as she drew him into the wide lovely room, where she motioned him lightly to an easy chair, and then tucked herself cozily into one corner of another, far too wide for her, leaning comfortably over the upholstered arm in his direction. She could have wept aloud over him, and yet she liked him. Prudence, with the rigid training of her Methodist ancestry, still stoutly affirmed that she never took a dislike to any human being, that she was positively without personal aversion. But when she liked, it was with a quick unerring instinct which had never betrayed her trust.

She rejoiced that she felt this liking for the unfortunate young knight errant, who had come to the Middle West on such an absurd, boyish quest. Jerry might fool her father, might amaze and bewilder even one as skeptical as Duane, but Prudence saw through every little flaw in her armor, saw what lay beneath her stubborn resistance and her eager impulse, both springing as they did from the same emotion.

She found herself apologizing for her daughter. "You must really excuse Jerry if sometimes she seems a little self-willed, almost strong-headed," her father says. I can't imagine where she got so much backbone. I'm very easy about everything, and her father is wax in the hands of anyone who tries to wheedle him, but Jerry has a terrible mind once she gets it made up."

Duane found himself thinking less of Jerry than of Prudence, rather, thinking through Prudence to Jerry again. His impression of that lovely though willful young woman had to undergo a swift transformation now that he saw Prudence. She explained everything he had not understood before. He found her a rational accounting for the moods of a maddening maiden.

Prudence did not ask questions. She just talked, laughing with him, at New York, at Jerry, at the Middle West, and at his curious obedience to the caprice of her always capricious daughter.

Theft of Material Blamed on a Pair

Ed Ross, negro, charged with having stolen some plumbing material from the Abel Plumbing company was

"And you may have to go to work, too," she told him. "She seems quite to have set her heart on making you work. She used to scoff at the nobility of labor as applied to herself, but she seems to have no such scruples in regard to you. Perhaps she is going to ennoble you in spite of yourself. But possibly you will not mind. You do not look at all lazy."

"I've worked before—as you might say. Well, I never washed cars for a living, but perhaps I can if I must."

He asked Prudence if it surprised or disappointed her, when Jerry gave up her dreams of art, her hope of becoming a painter.

"Not a bit," this amazing woman told him. "It didn't surprise me, and it certainly didn't disappoint me. I was glad of it. I knew all the time she couldn't paint."

"Then why did you send her—alone—to study, to—"

"I knew it, but she didn't. She had to find out somehow, didn't she?" And then she talked more of Jerry, of a Jerry he had felt might be in existence but had not known in person. "She may not be much of an artist," she said, "but she's a beautiful, wonderful daughter to Jerrold and me. We don't care whether she can paint or not, she's ours."

After a little, when he felt he could safely venture to intrude upon the intimately personal, he asked rather awkwardly:

"Would you mind telling me—how—you fell in love?"

Prudence blushed a little, laughed delightedly. "Oh, the silliest thing," she said apologetically. "Didn't Jerry tell you?"

And then she told him of that early morning on the lovely Iowa countryside, when she went coasting down a steep grade on a borrowed bicycle into disaster and wreckage at the bottom. When he sympathized, laughing, with the Prudence lying in the dust by the roadside, battered and crumpled and torn, with the ruins of the borrowed wheel about her, and on her con science—

"Oh, don't be sorry," she pleaded gaily, joining his laughter. "For I opened my eyes and there stood over me—Jerrold—Jerry's father—and we looked at each other—"

Duane's lips were a rigid line. "Love at first sight!" he muttered grimly. "I might have known it."

Prudence nodded. "Yes, love at first sight," she repeated softly. "Don't let anyone tell you there's no such thing. There is! At least there was in our day. Oh, well, perhaps it is not technically and scientifically down in the books as love at first sight. But there is that little pleased wakening up, that warm attraction—and if it stops, it is nothing. But if it goes on and on, it is love at first sight. Like ours! But perhaps things are different now, times are changed, and girls are very different."

Duane was looking past Prudence now, beyond her, to the heart of Jerry her daughter, unchanged with the changing times. In that moment he knew with undoubting sureness who he had come to this remote and curious place in answer to the impulsive appeal of her letter. His eyes, on Prudence's face, saw not her but Jerry's.

"I'm surprised she didn't tell you about it," Prudence was saying. "From the time she could talk, she has adored that bit of the family history. When she was a baby, and a little girl—yes and until she was a pretty big one she would always say she was going to fall in love like Prudence. She thought nothing else was really love!"

She used to tell perfect strangers with the utmost frankness and assurance, that it would come to her like that—love—a sudden look, and knowing—Prudence laughed tenderly. "She got over it, of course. When she was old enough to understand, she realized that it doesn't happen like that once in a thousand years, or more."

Duane said nothing. "For once, Prudence was wrong. Jerry had not changed. All through her babyhood and into her woman's estate, that had been the dominant hope and faith of her gay romantic heart. And he, with profane, half-drunken fingers, and hot half-drunken lips, had rent the veil from the beautiful illusion that had been her tenderest dream."

"I love Jerry," he said aloud to Prudence, in a very slow and sober voice. "Did you know it?"

"I—I rather thought so," said Prudence, with a little quivering of her sensitive lips. But she smiled immediately. "I—I don't mind a bit," she said bravely, in gentle apology for that betrayal of her lips.

CHAPTER VI

Jerry Calls for Help

Jerrold returned to his home that night in an unnaturally depressed and embittered frame of mind. Why should he, he demanded of Prudence in a stern voice, be saddled with a protegee like that—as big as himself, and who by his own admission knew nothing of motor cars beyond the steering wheel. Prudence agreed with him that it was perfectly reprehensible or the part of their daughter, and she couldn't imagine what things were coming to with this new generation! She balanced herself on the edge of the bathtub while he was shaving, followed him meekly into the room they shared together and stood passively beside him at the dressing table while he viciously jerked a fresh tie into place.

"It's the way you've raised her," he said in a tone that cleared himself of all moral responsibility for Jerry at least, however much Duane might rest upon his shoulders.

"I know it," Prudence agreed meekly, fined $26.60 and given a street sentence of 30 days by Mayor Carswell in Albany police court this morning. Frank Rich, negro, accused of having stolen materials in his possession, drew a fine of $51.60 and a sentence of 30 days.

Pertinent Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years old and have been going for the past year with a man of thirty-two. Lately I have met a younger man who seems attracted to me and in whom I am becoming very much interested.

Will you please tell me how I can "get rid of" the first man so that I can have more time to go out with other friends, without hurting his feelings too deeply.

GRAY EYES: If you refuse the invitations of this young man, repeatedly but tactfully, he will realize that you are no longer interested in him. Merely tell him that you are rather busy, and I am sure you will find that he acts accordingly. But make certain, first of all, that you are not interested in him, because it will be rather difficult to renew a friendship which you have broken off in this manner.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

Congressman's Son Follows To Grave

(Associated Press) GREENWOOD, Miss., Aug. 15.—James C. Sisson, 20, the son of the late congressman Thomas U. Sisson, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding with four others ran off the road last night near Brown, Miss., and crashed into a culvert. Headlights from another car are said to have caused the driver of the automobile to misjudge the distance to the edge of the roadway. None of the other occupants of the car were injured.

BRIDGE PIER LISTS AND IS REINFORCED

Extra Gangs Are Here To Make Span "Sure"

A pier, beneath the Southern railway bridge, across the Tennessee river here, today was said to be listed about six inches at the top and frame work has been placed all about the structure to make the span "sure" and keep traffic moving across the structure.

There is absolutely no danger of interruption of traffic, it was stated. The Southern is reinforcing, with a concrete wall, all of the piers and it was said that the excavation work near the bottom of the listed pier was believed to have been the cause of the list. At the bottom the pier seems not to have shifted, but had settled on one side, but has a list at the top toward down river.

Two extra bridge gangs were said to have arrived here to help in building a new pier.

NEGROES CHOOSE REPRESENTATIVES

Area Council Meets At Waveland In September

Appointment of representatives to the area council to be held at Waveland, Miss., and reports from various departments consumed the Friday meeting of the Negro Huntsville district conference. The conference will come to a close Sunday night.

The conference chose for its representatives to the Area council to be held in Waveland, Miss., September 1-3, J. H. Houston and T. R. Parker of the State Normal school. This council is made up of 100 District Superintendents and one hundred delegates selected from the laity and ministry of the area. This council represents 800 pastors and 100 district superintendents comprising seven annual conferences in Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Alabama and Tennessee.

T. H. Ham of Birmingham represented the Central Alabama Institute which was destroyed by fire about two years ago in Birmingham. Efforts are being made to induce the board of education to rebuild this institution. There was an insurance of $26,000 on the main building which was entirely destroyed by fire. This school serves the Methodists of Alabama and had an enrollment of more than two hundred students. Strong resolutions were passed pledging the support of the Huntsville district conference in this enterprise.

The conference will close Sunday night. J. H. Houston will preach Sunday morning, 1 J. W. Thomas of Huntsville at three o'clock. A. W. McKinney at night.

Negro Conference Pass Educational Resolutions

Whereas, we the members of the Huntsville District of the Central Alabama Conference assembled in regular session in Albany, Ala., Aug. 11 to 16 realizing the importance of the public school system in the development of our social group and in the formation of high ideals of American citizenship resolve, we pledge our heartfelt support and encouragement to the work of public school education of the state and give every assistance to all local educational needs.

Be it further resolved that we express to the state officials our hearty appreciation of our two outstanding state institutions, namely, the State Normal school, Montgomery and the State A and M Institute, Normal.

Be it further resolved that since we have learned with pleasure the name of Prof. T. H. Randall mentioned in connection with the vacancy of the presidency of the State Normal school, caused by the death of Dr. G. W. Trumbull and since we feel that this vacancy must be filled by a man of motive judgment, poise, experience and with administrative and executive ability and one who fully understands the relations between the races as well as one who is so well known among all the best colored citizens of the state and who enjoys their full confidence as one of our most outstanding leaders and educators. We, members of the Huntsville District representing a following embracing all the Northern counties, urge upon the state officials a favorable consideration of Prof. Randall for the presidency of this important position. Resolved finally that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the state department of education.

Signed Rev. J. H. Houston, President, J. W. Thomas, Sec.

THEATRES

Wolf, who plays the title role in "Baree, Son of Kazan," the photo play special opening at the Princes Theatre Monday, is probably the most remarkable dog alive. He is a World War hero and a wearer of the Croix de Guerre. This decoration was pinned to his collar by Marshal Foch himself, that occasion being the only one on which a dog was ever personally decorated by a French marshal. Anita Stewart, the star in the picture, wishes she might have Baree always, so attached to him did she become when the filming of outdoor scenes for "Baree, Son of Kazan" was in progress near Donner Lake, Cal. Wolf took a deep liking to her also and to show his affection acted as her special escort and guardian when the company was trudging the deep snowdrifts in the California mountains. He was more at home that severe climate than was the star.

When the end of the production work was approaching Miss Stewart took steps which she hoped would make it possible for Wolf to remain with her for a long time to come. She tried to buy the dog actor. When her original offer was not accepted, she made public, but Miss Stewart raved the bids repeatedly until $5.00 was reached. The owner refused to be tempted even by this sum, however, much to the star's disappointment.

THE FLORIDA BOOM MIGHT BECOME HELPFUL TO THE PEOPLE OF ALABAMA

G. W. Rosenfeld, Miami realtor, the Florence News announces, has returned to his Florida home, after having brought a party of 15 persons from there to the Shoals district to show them possible sites for real estate investments. Mr. Rosenfeld, the News continues, plans to bring a much larger party to the Shoals within a few weeks.

That is turning the tables on Florida with a vengeance. But there is no reason why Alabama should neglect her opportunity to show the Southern visitors something really worthwhile. Because Florida has attained sufficient notoriety to bring people from other sections into the South, is no reason why Alabama should not take advantage of an unusual situation to display her resources before the critical eyes of the wiser investors.

Mr. Rosenfeld's endeavor to bring Florida visitors to Alabama is in line with other movements of a similar nature now being considered in various parts of the state. Visitors to Florida are usually imbued with the "buying fever." They frequently have come long distances, seeking a short route to wealth. They may or may not find what they desire in either state, but if they are willing to place their money in Alabama, they at least have the assurance that they are buying for themselves what appears to be the surest bet the real estate market has ever afforded.

Alabama's immense natural wealth some day is certain to make money for land owners of this state. The world demands Alabama's natural resources and what the world demands, it usually has the money to pay for.

Florida may show more realty transfers than Alabama. Florida may outrank this state in the construction of hotels and beaches, but Florida cannot now and never will be able to outrank Alabama in minerals developed. In mines opened, steel mills located and scores of similar industry, because Florida has not the natural advantages that this state enjoys.

Bring on the Florida visitors to Alabama. Up here in North Alabama, our people can show them some amazing things.

MOVEMENT TO ADVERTISE STATE DESERVES SUPPORT OF PEOPLE

The movement to advertise Alabama, initiated some weeks ago, is deserving of the support of every citizen. Mississippi, long ago, adopted a similar plan and now is receiving much favorable publicity. The public is more or less well acquainted with the plans Florida has utilized and the large sums that state has spent in putting her before the nation in a favorable light. What has helped those states would help Alabama.

The plan now considered is one suggested by Lamar Field, assistant attorney general and given endorsement by J. C. McLendon, president of the Alabama Press Association. Mr. McLendon, however, offering valuable suggestions to enlarge the scope of the original plan.

The press association executive would organize a state chamber of commerce, having representatives in every county, with the executive committee probably composed of a committee from each county. His plan is outlined in the Amistion Star as follows:
"President McLendon, who also is editor of the Luverne would have a State Chamber of Commerce with an executive committeeman from each county in the state. He would have two representative men from each county meet in a state convention of business men to perfect the organization of a State Chamber of Commerce, and doubtless the plan also would include bringing into the membership of the State Chamber the chambers of commerce, junior and senior, and the commercial clubs and boards of trade of all Alabama towns and cities. Such an organization financially equipped, would be a wonderful agency for publicity and soon could let the whole country know about Alabama, what it has and what it is doing.

"J. M. Moore, state commissioner of agriculture, heartily in sympathy with the suggestion made by Lamar Field and the movement started by President McLendon, suggests that the state convention to form the organization be held in Montgomery on September 1. He would have the state board of agriculture co-operate in the movement, and his suggestion appears to be a most excellent one. There is no reason why every agricultural agent and organization in the state should not be included in the plan to boost Alabama, for agriculture is a major industry in this state and needs only development to make this a great agricultural empire.

"Mr. Field thinks prestige would be added to the movement if the department of agriculture could be included in the general plan for advertising the state, and he has made some suggestions to President McLendon that appear both timely and practical. He writes:

"I have had nothing in my mind as to working out of the details of such an organization, but it occurs to me that if the people and industries of the state should see fit to donate a sufficient sum for the employment of an advertising expert, who would also act as executive secretary of the organization, that would be a desirable plan. It seems to me that such a man should be placed under the supervision of the commissioner of agriculture and industries who has in his office more information with reference to the agricultural and industrial resources of the state than is to be found elsewhere, and the counsel of the commissioner with such advertising expert from time to time would be invaluable to him in the preparation of advertising matter."

"Mr. Field suggests the name of the organization, Alabama Club to Broadcast Agricultural and Industrial Resources of Alabama in the United States, or some other name carrying out that idea. He believes a 'state chamber of commerce' would be inadvisable as local chambers of commerce are functioning in entirely different manner from that proposed for this state-wide movement. He also suggests that instead of two representatives from each county, the probate judge be appointed by the state organization as chairman for his county.

"The whole plan appears to be a most excellent one and the interest that is being shown in it by leaders of business in the state is evidence that it will be given hearty support. The organization as planned should be formed without delay. The time really 'is ripe for advertising Alabama,' and every day 'is permitted to pass without starting that advertising is a day lost."

"The Florida boom was given impetus by the very generous advertising given that state by the cities and business organizations of Florida. The state of California never would have attracted the thousands of people each year that have gone there from the North and East, but for the extensive advertising carried on by California cities and business organizations, and by the transcontinental railroads. All told, this advertising has literally made Florida boom and literally has made California grow in population and in wealth as no other state in the Union has grown.
"It would be well to give Alabama some of the same kind of advertising that has been done for California and Florida, and it should be done now. The newspapers of Alabama can be counted upon to do their full share in the movement started by Messrs. Field and McLendon, and the chambers of commerce and business organizations of the state doubtless will join heartily in the movement, therefore the plan should be carried out without delay."

A TRAIN OF THOUGHTS for the Sabbath and Other Days

BY J. E. BLAIR

"Keep thine heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life"—that is to say, the issues of life will appear "clear" and "squarely joined" to all who have pure hearts! The scripture should not be taken to mean, as many seem to think, that life will issue to the satisfaction of all who keep their hearts with all diligence. Job seems to have kept a pure heart, but he was poor and sick. There was a well meaning woman in the New Testament, who had "had an issue of blood for twelve years." No, it is a wrong idea, to teach that Christianity will bring happiness. It will bring joy, and peace in the Holy Spirit but who can show where Christians are promised happiness. Nobody! Christ said in effect that all who drank of His cup would taste bitterness, in this present life! But do "sinners" miss bitterness? But back to the original text: Did you ever notice how hard it is for the "court" to get lawyers to agree, that "the issue is squarely joined?" You have certainly noticed when a political issue arises, provided it has a moral aspect like "prohibition" for example, how hard it is to keep the real issue "clear." Why? Because people who have NOT kept their hearts with all diligence don't want the truth to come out—they want to muddy the waters of reason! But why had hearted people anyway? They exist because they have not taken care of their hearts—base, the hope of long rest spells, power, lust why, a thousand temptations of the devil have intervened, such considerations show why we have "bad" hearted people! Non-believers are born of failure to keep their hearts right! A child has no difficulty in believing in God. He has not done wrong long enough to get his heart to where it has "heart-trouble" in believing in God. That is to say, the last statement is true, provided we believe the Bible truth—"With the HEART man believeth unto righteousness."

At the mention of the Bible, the thought naturally arises—why all the present effort to get the Bible believed and not doubted? Why the law to cause the Bible to be read in the public schools? It is all about this—The Bible is the book that contains the prescription for spiritual heart failure! But let it not be thought, that the Bible cures people's heart ills. No, it don't, it is the Great Physician who does that. And the Bible is valuable only as a prescription book, as it points you and I to the Great Physician! Those who warn us not to worship the Bible are absolutely right. We are to worship God through Christ—worship of such kind is the chief way of keeping our hearts with all diligence! But, finally, even a true worshipper must use his heart and mind to keep life's issues clear, and all are apt to get the issues "mixed;" but the blessed thought is, those who have been seeking to keep their hearts right, are not willing poly, the Barnato, Johannesburg, Debeers, Kagerfontein, and other great diamond mines, may worry some day. One of those German chemists, solemnly working in his laboratory might upset the whole diamond business, by making diamonds artificially. A perfume that once cost $800 a pound, those German chemists produce, from coal, for $10 a pound.

MACMILLAN'S flying machines in the Arctic pass above lands never before seen by white men, if by any man. He describes towering peaks rugged wastes. What wealth may be hidden below that frozen soil. The Rockefellers have proved that there is oil there. There may be gold, diamonds as well. For where the North Pole is now, the tropics were once. This old earth, gradually shifts its position as it rolls around the sun, like a fowl on the spit, turning all parts toward the heat.

THOUSANDS of Englishmen, representing "modern wealth, culture and refinement," are in Scotland or on their way there bent on killing something.

The something is grouse. The season is open. The first bird killed is sent to the King. Ten dollars a pair—ten times the usual price, is paid for the first birds brought in by flying machine.

The future will gauge the 1925 civilization by this happiness in killing and eating the things killed.

A PLAGUE of butterflies, causing motor engines to become overheated, by clogging the radiators suggests a gruesome possibility. If the insects with their horrible fertility, should get out of control, they could fill the air, destroy all vegetation, starve, suffocate and devour the human race and all other animals.

The specimens of a certain cabbage pest, if all their children lived for a dozen generations, would produce an insect mass bigger than the earth itself.

NATURE fortunately attends to these things. Even the insect plagues of Egypt sent to punish sin did not kill all Egyptians.

Insects kill each other off, just as the less intelligent tribes of human beings kill each other. Mankind can look down in security upon the insects as a handful of British look down upon their 300,000,000 subjects in India. There Mohammedans and Hindus kill each other, but don't unite to kill Englishmen.

A SCIENTIST says that the young people of today have become "motor car wise." By instinct they avoid automobiles and adapt themselves to traffic. Older people seem unable to learn.

Even chickens and dogs have learned something. They stay out of the road and are killed less frequently than they once were.

THE FOLLY OF MAKING PLAY A CONTEST

Either Strenuous Work or Strenuous Play Is Good for a Man or Woman in Middle Life When Relaxation Is Necessary.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

LORD DAWSON, personal physician to King George of Great Britain, has been saying some good things about the failure of business and professional men to rest and relax. He thinks the reason why so many men die at what should be the beginning of vigorous old age is because they don't know how to relax.

Besides, those who have mastered the art of right living, there are two kinds of men: The first group never lets up on business. From early morning until late evening they work and slave and sweat and groan. They eat as they work, and at the same time. They never take "a day off," and never have any fun. They are ready to murder their wives if the dear souls make any social engagements for them.

There is a second group of men. These are they who belong to golf, tennis or riding clubs. Promptly at 4 o'clock they close their desks, taxi to the station, catch the 4:25 express, reach the appointed destination, are autoed to the country club, and indulge in the "sport," whatever it may be, in exactly the same strenuous manner they conduct business.

They do not indulge in the sport because they have to play. They strive to win. They look in disdain upon the poor dud who knocks the balls about "just for fun." They don't feel the spirit of the sea beneath their feet. They don't hear the songs of the birds and the chirping of the crickets. They don't study the fleecy clouds and wonder at the colors in the sunset. No, they are participants in a contest which has become to them just as important as the consummation of a successful financial deal.

Poor chaps! They think they are playing. They think they are having fun. They think they are laying up a reserve of strength, health and long life. Poor, deluded mortals!

The men who love the woods and fields, who glory in the sparkle of dew drops and the shimmer of still waters, who watch the curl of the leaves and the flight of the birds—to these men who know how to rest and relax, the plight of the others seems hopeless.

The pathetic thing about it is that the strenuous sportsmen I read this and sneer. Well, we can't help it, we'll continue to play for play's sake and we'll be here enjoying ourselves a score of years after the champions have gone to Heaven. That's that!

IT WOULD be good news if the people of the generation would be "whiskey wise" in addition to being motor car wise.

During the next few years there will be more young people killed by whiskey than old people killed by automobiles.

IN BRITAIN justice has long been within the reach of the poor man. The upper classes know it pays to keep the lower classes satisfied. They haven't discovered that yet, here. English judges, now propose a "5 pound divorce case." Poor people entitled to a divorce will get it for a total cost under $25.

CHILDREN'S WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

Methodists Are Now Co-operating With Other Churches

(Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Plans are being made throughout Southern Methodism for the best and most extensive observance of Children's Week ever held, it is announced by Miss Minnie E. Kennedy, superintendent of the Elementary work department of the general Sunday school board of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In this continent-wide movement for the religious education of children, Southern Methodists are co-operating with five other protestant denominations, the Southern Presbyterians, Southern Baptists, Methodist Episcopal, Northern Presbyterian and United Brethren.

The observance of Children's Week is explained by Miss Kennedy as an opportunity for parents, teachers, and officers of the Sunday school to consider together the problems of the children and to determine ways of meeting them. During the week, each church pledges itself to take at least one forward step during the year to promote the religious education of children.

Parent's meetings and visits to the homes of children will feature the observance of the Week. Miss Kennedy reports that more than 40,000 homes were visited during the week last year and that about 51,000 parents were reached through the parents' meetings. The prize winning pageant, "The Voice of the Future," will be presented at the parents' meetings. It was written by Miss Kennedy especially for presentation during the week. North Arkansas and South Carolina conferences of the M. E. Church, South, are reported to have led the other denominations in the observance of the week last year with 74 churches in each conference participating, and a combined number of 133 "forward steps" taken.

Quinn In Favor Of Game Preserves

(Associated Press) MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 15.—Game and Fish Commissioner I. T. Quinn is very much in favor of the establishments of a game preserve on about 20,000 acres of land in the Little River Gulch, which is a long, narrow valley lying in Cherokee and DeKalb counties. Several thousand acres of wild lands, lie about the Gulch. Commissioner Quinn says, making it an ideal spot for a preserve. As a result of the recent visit made to the Gulch by Commissioner Quinn, the area has been listed as a future game preserve for the state.

Commenting on this area, Commissioner Quinn said yesterday: "The Little River Gulch is a long, narrow valley in the heart of the mountain fastnesses of Cherokee and a part of DeKalb counties, for miles and miles there are no settlements. At the mouth of the Gulch, however, here spreads out level and rolling valley lands which extend to the Coosa river. Here a happy and prosperous people reside, and splendid crops of corn, cotton and fruits are raised. "At the upper end of the Gulch, at the top of Lookout Mountain, one approaches cloudland. The mountain is reached by one of the finest highways in the south that traverses and reveals scenery unparalleled in this part of the country.

Several million dollars is being and will be spent in developing a great summer resort there. "A little farther to the westward, just across the West Forks of the Little River, is the well known Mentone resort famed for the pure water and the wonderful climate experienced here. "There are thousands of acres of wild, non-arable land in this district that cannot be entered from any direction except North and South, that will make a wonderful game preserve. The old natives of the outlying districts say that prior to and during a few years after the war between the state, game abounded in this area. But that was the period before the idea of conservation took hold on the public, and the game was wiped out. "The younger generation believe that if the state will re-stock this area now, it can and will be easily protected. As a result of my visit to this area, Little River Gulch has been listed as one of the state's future game preserves.

Misses Lucile and Ruth Frow, and brother, John, of Maryland, Tenn. are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. J. W. Thornton.

James Watson is visiting friends and relatives in Wachahachie, Tex.

L. T. Sneed is suffering from a sprained arm, received in a fall.

Florida Boom Is Demanding Iron

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 15—All pig iron being made in the Alabama district is being sold in small lots and foundries are being kept in active operation with the prospect of continuous activity for the next sixty days.

Orders for the fourth quarter are now being booked. Quotations on the iron bars are $18.50 for immediate delivery and $19 for future delivery or number two foundry.

The pig iron production in Alabama for July totalled 224,837 tons, basic and foundry. This total was 1,616 tons less than the total for June, but one of the larger blast furnaces in operation in June was idle in July to allow for repairs. The total for May was 241,611 tons and for April 256,351. Two blast furnaces are out, although the Woodward company will have its plant in operation early next week.

Steel is still enjoying a good season, all shapes and sizes being in demand.

The Central of Georgia Railroad company has just placed an order for one thousand box cars to be built at the Chickasaw subsidiary plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. The cost of these cars will total many million dollars.

With the opening of the Reeves Brothers, Inc., plant, Woodlawn, the demand for steel is expected to increase gradually. This plant is engaged in the manufacture of tanks and tank cars. The first unit of the plant has been completed.

Progress is announced in construction of the sheet mill of the Tennessee Company at Fairfield.

Alabama coal production has shown some improvement in the last several weeks. Steam coal is in big demand at present. Domestic fuel is expected to increase in demand soon. In anticipation of cooler weather domestic coal already is beginning to move out of the Alabama fields. The state's output weekly can be raised to 450,000 tons.

Should the anthracite strike threaten materialize Alabama producers will be called upon to shoulder their burden in furnishing fuel, although the Pennsylvania product is of a different kind.

Coke production maintains a steady pace, with all by-product plants running. Foundry coke is quoted at $4.50 and $5 per ton.

Soil pipe and fittings have improved in demand and the production of the past week is reported to have increased.

Pressure pipe make shows no let-up and indications are that the present conditions will be maintained for several weeks. With the widespread and intensive building programs over the country this product is being shipped as soon as it is made. The Florida boom in real estate development is commanding much of the output.

The True Cost of Printing

Do you consider printing as merely an expense necessary to the operation of your business? Or do you treat it as a means of building business?

Poor printing is an expense, not only in the money it costs, but in its undesirable reflection on your business.

Good printing costs nothing—it offsets its own cost and makes money for you.

Whether the printing be a direct appeal for business such as a circular or other form of direct advertising, or a statement or other office form, quality counts in the reckoning of its cost.

We look upon printing as something which should absorb its own cost and make a profit for its user. And we produce printing that does.

CHILDREN'S WEEK TO BE OBSERVED

Methodists Are Now Co-operating With Other Churches

(Associated Press)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., August 15.—Plans are being made throughout Southern Methodism for the best and most extensive observance of Children's Week ever held, it is announced by Miss Minnie E. Kennedy, superintendent of the Elementary work department of the general Sunday school board of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In this continent-wide movement for the religious education of children, Southern Methodists are cooperating with five other protestant denominations, the Southern Presbyterians, Southern Baptists, Methodist Episcopal, Northern Presbyterian and United Brethren.

The observance of Children's Week is explained by Miss Kennedy as an opportunity for parents, teachers, and officers of the Sunday school to consider together the problems of the children and to determine ways of meeting them. During the week, each church pledges itself to take at least one forward step during the year to promote the religious education of children.

Parent's meetings and visits to the homes of children will feature the observance of the week. Miss Kennedy reports that more than 40,000 homes were visited during the week last year and that about 51,000 parents were reached through the parents' meetings. The prize winning pageant, "The Voice of the Future," will be presented at the parents' meetings. It was written by Miss Kennedy especially for presentation during the week. North Arkansas and South Carolina conferences of the M. E. Quinn In Favor Of Game Preserves

(Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 15.—Game and Fish Commissioner I. T. Quinn is very much in favor of the establishment of a game preserve on about 20,000 acres of land in the Little River Gulch, which is a long, narrow valley lying in Cherokee and DeKalb counties. Several thousand acres of wild lands, lie about the Gulch, Commissioner Quinn says, making it an ideal spot for a preserve. As a result of the recent visit made to the Gulch by Commissioner Quinn, the area has been listed as a future game preserve for the state.

Commenting on this area, Commissioner Quinn said yesterday:

"The Little River Gulch is a long, narrow valley in the heart of the mountain fastnesses of Cherokee and DeKalb counties, for miles and miles there are no settlements. At the mouth of the Gulch, however, here spreads out level and rolling valley lands which extend to the Coosa river. Here a happy and prosperous people reside, and splendid crops of corn, cotton and fruits are raised. "At the upper end of the Gulch, at the top of Lookout Mountain, one approaches cloudland. The mountain is reached by one of the finest highways in the south that traverses and reveals scenery unparalleled in this part of the country.

Several million dollars is being and will be spent in developing a great summer resort there.

"A little farther to the westward, just across the West Forks of the Little River, is the well known Montone resort famed for the pure water and the wonderful climate experienced here.

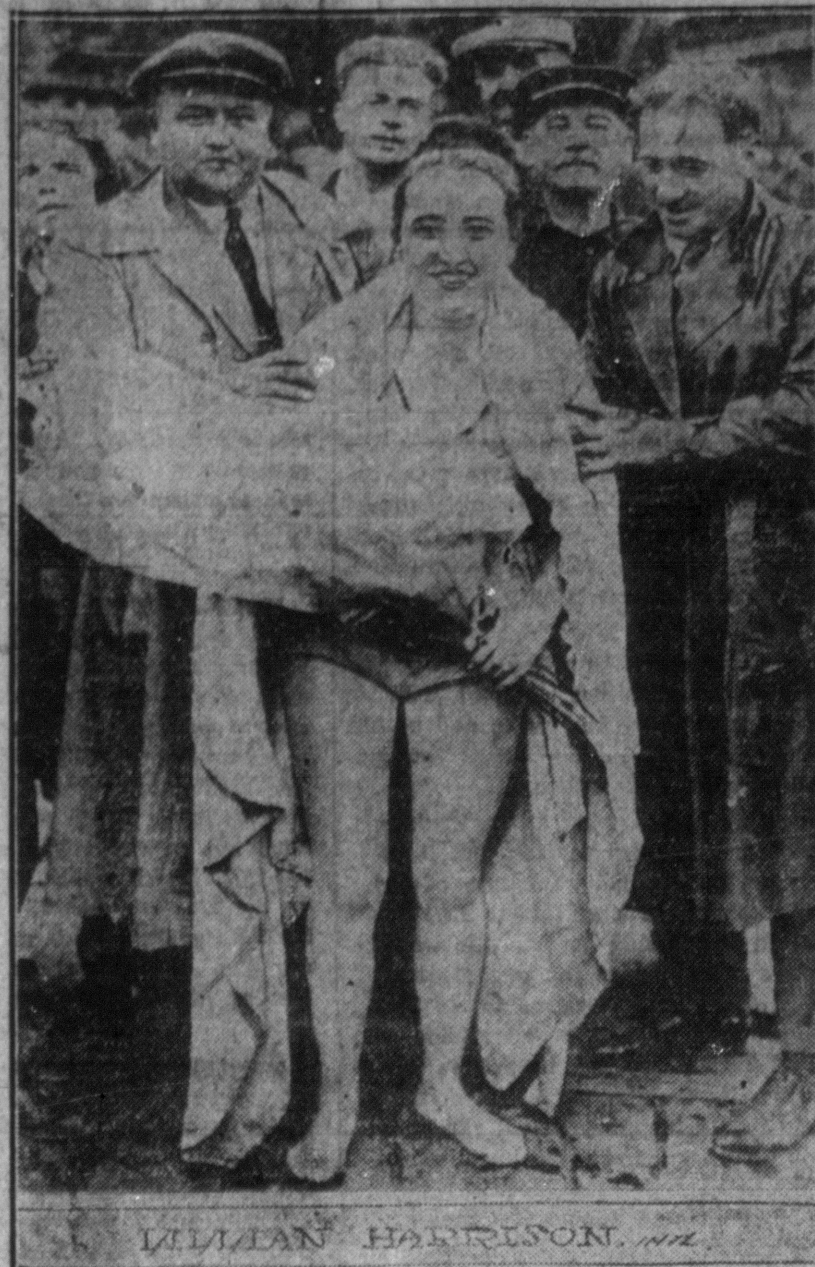

"There are thousands of acres of wild, non-arable land in this district that cannot be entered from any direction except North and South, that will make a wonderful game preserve. The old natives of the outlying districts say that prior to and during a few years after the war between the state, game abounded in this area. But that was the period before the idea of conservation took hold on the public, and the game was wiped out. "The younger generation believe that if the state will re-stock this area now, it can and will be easily protected. As a result of my visit to this area, Little River Gulch has been listed as one of the state's future game preserves.

Florida Boom Is Demanding Iron

(Associated Press)

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 15—All

pig iron being made in the Alabama district is being sold in small lots and foundries are being kept in active operation with the prospect of continuous activity for the next sixty days.

Orders for the fourth quarter are now being booked. Quotations on the iron bars are $18.50 for immediate delivery and $19 for future delivery or number two foundry.

The pig iron production in Alabama for July totalled 224,837 tons, basic and foundry. This total was 1,616 tons less than the total for June, but one of the larger blast furnaces in operation in June was idle in July to allow for repairs. The total for May was 241,611 tons and for April 256,351. Two blast furnaces are out, although the Woodward company will have its plant in operation early next week.

Steel is still enjoying a good season, all shapes and sizes being in demand.

The Central of Georgia Railroad company has just placed an order for one thousand box cars to be built at the Chickasaw subsidiary plant of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company. The cost of these cars will total many million dollars.

With the opening of the Reeves Brothers, Inc., plant, Woodlawn, the demand for steel is expected to increase gradually. This plant is engaged in the manufacture of tanks and tank cars. The first unit of the plant has been completed.

Progress is announced in construction of the sheet mill of the Tennessee Company at Fairfield.

Alabama coal production has shown some improvement in the last several weeks. Steam coal is in big demand at present. Domestic fuel is expected to increase in demand soon. In anticipation of cooler weather domestic coal already is beginning to move out of the Alabama fields. The state's output weekly can be raised to 450,000 tons.

Should the anthracite strike threats materialize Alabama producers will be called upon to shoulder their burden in furnishing fuel, although the Pennsylvania product is of a different kind.

Coke production maintains a steady pace, with all by-product plants running. Foundry coke is quoted at $4.50 and $5 per ton.

Soil pipe and fittings have improved in demand and the production of the past week is reported to have increased.

Pressure pipe make shows no let-up and indications are that the present conditions will be maintained for several weeks. With the widespread and intensive building programs over the country this product is being shipped as soon as it is made. The Florida boom in real estate development is commanding much of the output.

Let The Daily figure with you on your next job printing.

The True Cost of Printing

Do you consider printing as merely an expense necessary to the operation of your business? Or do you treat it as a means of building business?

Poor printing is an expense, not only in the money it costs, but in its undesirable reflection on your business.

Good printing costs nothing—it offsets its own cost and makes money for you.

Whether the printing be a direct appeal for business such as a circular or other form of direct advertising, or a statement or other office form, quality counts in the reckoning of its cost.

We look upon printing as something which should absorb its own cost and make a profit for its user. And we produce printing that does.

Conference To Be Called At Y For The Discussion Of Coming Football Season

Conference will be called at the Y. M. C. A. probably during the early part of next week for the preliminary season arrangements for the Louisville and Nashville outfit, which team plans to open regular season near the latter part of September. The meeting will be called for the purpose of getting line on all candidates for various team positions, settlement of equipment problems, and final arrangement of the schedule.

Indications at the present time point to a successful season ahead of the Louisville and Nashville representatives. Games have been signed with the Howard College Reserves and with the Sewanee University reserves. Games are pending with Morgan Prep, Massey at Pulaski, and Columbia Military. Other games may be signed with high school eleven.

The Y. M. C. A. lads feel no hesitancy in taking on the toughest schedule that any team in this section has played since the art of the pigskin was first introduced in the valley. Officials feel that one of the best prospects for a strong combination possithe local lads will be called upon to display their abilities.

Problems in the line loom greater than the backfield solution. McRee, Braswell, Johnson, Gustin and possibly Ashwander will report for their pigskin packing qualities. In the line Bowen, Byars, Walker, Watson, Speer and Shelton are expected to return. Others have announced their intentions of reporting for duty. Captain Ellison of last years squad will be used either in the backfield or in the line. His defensive ability probably will be needed in bolstering the forward wall. Naming of a coach for the season has not yet been done but there is a probability that Webb or Sample will be picked at an early date for the job.

Call will be sent out during the coming week by Manager Arvidson notifying the men of the meeting, the date and hour.
